BROMLEY L. ARMSTRONG

Since 2005, inspired by the legacy of unionist and human rights activist, Bromley Lloyd Armstrong, Labour Community Services (LCS) and the Equity Committee of Toronto & York Region Labour Council, have recognized leaders within the Labour Movement and community, who have also fought for human rights, Indigenous rights, equity and social justice.

Throughout the years, funds raised from the gala have gone towards supporting anti-racism work led by LCS and the Labour Council. Campaigns such as the Refugee Next Door, Yes, It Matters: Addressing Systemic Racism, and Anti-Racism in Unions, were launched and continue to be active today. In 2024, the Eyes on the Prize project brought together Black union leaders to discuss how collective support in the fight against anti-Black racism could be strengthened.

Your support continues Bromley's legacy, as well as the invaluable work and recognition of leaders within the Labour Movement. Please join us in celebrating 20 years of positive change!
